SPANISH AMERICA

[1] [ACARETE DU BISCAY.] A Relation of Mr. R. M.'s Voyage to Buenos-Ayres: and from thence by land to Potosi. Dedicated to the Honourable the Court of Directors of the South Sea Company.
With small folding map. 12mo. Calf.
London, 1716. £8 8s

A scarce separately printed account. This translation was first issued in the 1698 edition of Acugna's Voyages in S. America. It is an extremely interesting narrative of commercial ventures to the River Plate in the 1655-60 period. R.M. was probably the gentleman who, as mentioned in the dedication, recommended the reprinting of the narrative.

[2] AN ACCOUNT of the Spanish Settlements in America.
With folding map. Thick 8vo. Calf.
Edinburgh, 1762. £3 15s

[3] ACOSTA (Joseph). The Naturall and Morall Historie of the East and West Indies. Intreating of the remarkeable things of Heaven, of the Elements, Mettalls, Plants and Beasts which are proper to that Country: Together with the Manners, Ceremonies, Lawes, Governements, and Warres of the Indians.
First Edition in English. 4to. Contemporary vellum, with the initials W.L. on sides.
London, 1604. £31 10s

A fine complete copy, with the blank leaf bearing the signature A, before the title.

"The authour, Joseph Acosta—a celebrated Spanish writer, was born at Medina del Campo, about 1539. He became Provincial of the Jesuits in Peru in 1571, and later Rector of the University of Salamanca—where he died in 1600. The Historia Natural y Moral de las Indias is his most celebrated work, and gives valuable information regarding the condition of South America at the period.

4to. Old calf.
London, 1604. £24

[5] ACOSTA (J. de). Historia Natural y Moral de las Indias.

[14] ACUNA (Christoval de). Voyages and Discoveries in South-America. Done into English from the Originals, being the only Accounts of those Parts hitherto extant.
With engraved folding maps of the Amazon and Rio de la Plata.
First English Edition. 8vo. Original calf.
London, S. Buckley, 1698. £18 18s
With separate titles and pagination to the second and third voyages. The volume comprises:—
Acugna (Christopher de). Relation of the Great River of Amazons in South America. Containing all the particulars of Father d'Acugna's Voyage up the River of Amazons to Quito in Peru, and back again to Brazil. With numerous particulars concerning the various Indian Tribes.
The original Edition of this work was suppressed by the Court of Spain, on the ground that it might prove advantageous to the Portuguese.
Acarete du Biscay. An Account of a Voyage up the River de la Plata, and thence overland to Peru. With observations on the Inhabitants, Indians as well as Spaniards; the Cities, Commerce, Fertility, and Riches of that Part of America. With a lengthy description of Buenos Ayres, and of the City of Potosi; and the mines there." Etc.

[15] AGUILAR (J.). Memorial . . . por el Padre Jayme Aguilar, . . . Provincial de la Provincia del Paraguay. En Defensa de sus Missioneros, y Reducciones de treinta pueblos de Indios.

[18] ALCALA GALIANO (Dionisio). Diario de la Navegacion de la Fragata del Rei Sta Maria de la Cabeza, del mando del Capitan de Navio Don Antonio de Cordova al Reconocimiento del Estrecho de Magallanes.

Original Manuscript Diary of this Voyage for exploring the Strait of Magellan in 1785-6.

Folio. 390 pp. Vellum.

Alcala Galiano entered the Spanish Navy in 1775 and on account of his special ability was sent on various scientific and exploring expeditions, one of the earliest being that described in this manuscript. Its purpose was for "making an exact survey of the Strait of Magellan and dispelling the many uncertainties that exist in regard to its inlets and unknown channels, a point of great importance to Navigation and Geography."

In 1789 Galiano accompanied the important South Sea Expedition of Malaspina. In consequence of his work during this voyage he was later given the command of the "Sutil" and "Mexicana" for the exploration of the Strait of Juan de Fuca. He was unfortunately killed at the Battle of Trafalgar when in command of the "Bahama."

[19] ALCEDO (Antonio de). Diccionario Geografico-Historico de las Indias Occidentales ó America.

5 vols. Small 4to. Spanish calf.

Madrid, Benito Cano, 1786. £22 10s

An indispensable Dictionary of names, comprising all geographical and ecclesiastical references to the New World.

[20] ALCEDO (Col. Antonio de). The Geographical and Historical Dictionary of America and the West Indies. Containing an entire translation of the Spanish work, with large Additions and Compilations from modern Voyages and Travels, and from Original and Authentic Information, by G. A. Thompson. Together with

A. Arrowsmith's Atlas to Thompson's Alcedo, collated with all the most recent Authorities, and composed chiefly from Scarce and Original Documents.

5 vols. 4to, and large folio atlas. Calf and half calf.

London, James Carpenter, 1812-15, and George Smeeton, 1819. £25

"Thompson's edition, for its additions, is infinitely superior to the original. Copies are sometimes found with an Atlas of 19 large maps by Arrowsmith, but they are rare."

The Atlas was published separately by another publisher, four years after the last volume of text, and is exceedingly important. It comprises:—

Map exhibiting all the New Discoveries in the Interior Parts of North America. Finely engraved on three large sheets, and including California and the N.W. Coast all of Canada, and part of the U.S.A.

A Map of the United States of North America, with Additions to 1819. On four large sheets. Being issued in 1819 it excludes the far Western States.

A New Map of Mexico and Adjacent Provinces, compiled from original documents, 1810. On four large sheets. Includes the territory of the Western States, California, New Mexico, Texas, etc.

MAGGS BROS. LTD. LONDON

Chart of the West Indies and Spanish Dominions in North America. With Additions to 1810. On two large sheets. Includes Florida, Southern Coast of U.S.A., Central America, and North of S. America.

Outlines of the Physical and Political Divisions of South America, partly from scarce and original documents published before 1806, but principally from manuscript maps and surveys made 1771-1806. Corrected to 1819. On six large sheets.

[21] ALCON (Juan José). Diario de la Expedicion del Mariscal de Campo, D. Juan Ramirez, sobre las Provincias Interiores de La Paz, Puno, Arequipa, y Cuzco. Por Don Juan José Alcon, Teniente Coronel agregado á la misma expedicion.

4to. Wrappers.

Lima, Bernardino Ruiz, 1815. £9 10s

Don Juan Ramirez was a Spanish General commanding in Peru. He was born in 1765 and died after 1823. He acted as Goveneche's principal officer in Charcas, 1809-12, and was Commander-in-Chief of the forces used against the Rebellion of Pumacagua, being victorious at the Battle of Umachiri, March 11, 1815. This work contains the account of this campaign, written by one of the Lt.-Cols. of the Expedition. In 1816 Ramirez became President of Quito, and in 1822 he was defeated by Sucre at the Battle of Pichincha, capitulated and abandoned Quito, which was never again occupied by the Spanish.

[22] ALEXANDER (Capt. J. E.). Transatlantic Sketches, comprising visits to the most interesting Scenes in North and South America, and the West Indies. With notes on Negro Slavery and Canadian Emigration.

Map and 10 etched plates. 2 vols. 8vo. Half morocco.

London, 1833. £2 5s

The first vol. relates principally to Guiana and the West Indies, the second vol. to travels in the U.S.A. commencing at New Orleans.

[23] ALLER (J. de). Relacion que el Padre Pulian de Aller, de la Compañia de Jesus, de la Provincia del Perù, y Superior de la nueva Mission de los Indios Getiles, de las dilatadas tierras de los Mohos, . . . à instancias de el . . . Côde de Lemos, Virrey de dicho Reyno, le haze al Padre Luys Jacinto de Contreras, Provincial . . . de el Perù, su fecha à 9. de Setiembre de 1668.

Folio. 8 pp. Boards. £9 9s

An unusually interesting relacion. Father Aller gives an account of his journey to take up his missionary appointment among the Indians of Peru. He was accompanied by eleven Indians and tells of the various animals he came across and gives particulars regarding the customs, etc. of the Mohos Indians.

[24] ALVAREZ DE CASTRO (A.). Por el Licenciado don Antonio Alvarez de Castro, Presidente en la Real Audiencia de la Ciudad de Guadalaxara, de la Nueva Vizcaya. Con el Señor Fiscal de el Consejo, sobre Diferentes causas, y capitulos.

With woodcut on title of the Madonna and Child. Folio. 30 leaves.

(Madrid, c. 1675). £3 3s

The writer was President of the Real Audiencia of Guadalaxara and had been dismissed from his post and banished from America by order of the Council of the Indies. He brought a lawsuit over the matter and in this work sets out his case claiming that he had refused to adopt corrupt practices so making enemies who had brought about his dismissal.

ACCOUNT OF THE EARTHQUAKE AT LIMA.

[25] [ALVAREZ DE TOLEDO (Domingo)]. Relacion del Exemplar Castigo que embió Dios á la Cuidad de Lima Cabeça del Perú, y à su Costa de Barlovento con los espantosos Templores del dia 20. de Octubre del Año de 1687.

[34] [ANSON'S VOYAGE.] Journal of a Voyage Performed by the Ship Nostra Signora de Cabadonga, from the Port of Manila in the Phillippine Islands, to the Port of Acapulco in the Kingdom of New Spain and back again Anno Dom. 1743.

Written on rice paper in an unused petty-cash book found on board the captured Galleon. Folio. Spanish calf over wooden boards.

1743. £21

A volume of exceptional interest. The capture of this rich Galleon by H.M.S. Centurion was one of the outstanding events in the eighteenth century. Anson evidently gave orders that a translation of the captured vessel's logbook should be made, and for this purpose an unused cash book found in the N.S. de Cabadonga was made use of. The log commences on July 22, 1742 and finishes on Saturday 29th June, 1743 with the remark, "Little Wind and Cloudy. All sail sett." According to his Journal, Anson made his great capture on June 20, but at that time the calendar in England was eleven days behind the revised calendar used in Spain, so actually the log goes up to the day previous to the capture. At the end are several brief extracts from the logs of other voyages.

[35] ANSON (George). A Voyage round the World, 1740-4. By George Anson, Esq., Commander-in-Chief of a Squadron of His Majesty's Ships, sent upon an Expedition to the South-Seas. Compiled by Richard Walter, M.A., Chaplain of H.M.S. Centurion, in that Expedition.

With 42 engraved plates and Charts. FIRST EDITION. Thick 4to. Calf.

London, 1748. £4 4s

[36] ——— A Large Paper Copy of the First Edition.

Large thick 4to. Half morocco, gilt.

London, 1748. £5 5s

[37] ——— A Large Paper Copy of a later issue.

Large thick 4to. Calf.

London, 1749, and other dates. £2 15s

[38] [ANSON'S VOYAGE.] A Voyage to the South Seas, and to many other Parts of the World, performed from September 1740, to June 1744, By Commodore Anson, in His Majesty's Ship the Centurion, having under his Command the Gloucester, Pearl, Severn, Wager, Trial, and two Store Ships. To which is added an Appendix. Etc.

Engraved portrait of Anson and 5 folding plates. Small 8vo. Calf.

London, 1745. £7 10s

Portrait and title laid down. Some leaves slightly wormed at end.

One of the rarest of the volumes dealing with Anson's Voyage. The book was ready for publication in 1744, with a different title making no mention of the Appendix and ascribing the volume to "An Officer of the Expedition." This title was cancelled and the present one substituted. Actually the first half of the volume is the work of John Bulkeley, Carpenter of the "Wager." The second part, from page 218, is anonymous, and describes Anson's voyage after the "Wager" was lost sight of.

Map and 8 battle plans. 2 vols. 8vo. Wrappers.

Paris, 1881. 15s

[40] ARCHENHOLTZ (J. W.). Histoire des Flibustiers.

8vo. Half calf.

Paris, Henrichs, 1804. £1 5s

[41] [ARGENTINA]. Convengo con el Sentir de los Dotores no ser licito mober gerra a los Gentiles para obligar los a que reciban la Fée.

Manuscript report as to the means to be adopted by Missionaries for exploring and converting the provinces of Tucuman, Paraguay, and Buenos Aires. Folio. 4 pp.

Circa 1685. £9 9s

The writer concurs in the opinion of theologians that it would not be right to convert the heathen by the force of arms and to go to war with such countries as China and Japan for that purpose. South America, however, being under their own King (by virtue of Pope Alexander VI's famous Bull) they should use all available means for this object. He then discusses at length the means to be adopted for the penetration of Tucuman, Paraguay and Buenos Aires and the conversion of the natives.

[42] ARISMENDI (General Martino Ursua). Vera, e distinta relatione dell'acquisto fatto dalle gloriosissime Armi dell'Inuittissimo Monarca Carlo II, Nell'Indie del Regno d'Itza dominato dal Rè Canech venuto alla Santa Fede Cattolica.

4 pp. Small 4to. Wrappers.

Naples and Rome, 1699. £2 18s

Account of the Spanish Victory, under General Arismendi, over Canech, the King of Itza, Guatimala on March 13, 1698 and on the conversion of the King.

[43] ARTINANO Y DE GALDACANO (Gervasio de). Historia del Comercio con las Indias durante el dominio de los Austrias.

With 9 plates. 4to. Original wrappers. Uncut.

Barcelona, 1917. £1 1s

An interesting work on the history of commerce between Spain and America during the 16th and 17th centuries, treating of the passenger trade, slave trade, the pirates and buccaneers, shipbuilding, ordinary commerce, etc.

[44] THE ASSIENTO; or, Contract for allowing to the Subjects of Great Britain the Liberty of Importing Negroes into the Spanish America.

4to. Half levant morocco gilt, g.e.

London, 1713. £7 10s

[45] AN AUTHENTIC NARRATIVE of the Proceedings of the Expedition under the Command of Brigadier-Gen. Craufurd, until its Arrival at Monte Video; with an Account of the Operations against Buenos Ayres under the Command of Lieut.-Gen. Whitelocke. By an Officer of the Expedition.

With 4 folding maps illustrating the attacks on Buenos Aires and Monte Video by the British. 8vo. Contemporary half calf.

London, Printed for the Author, 1808. £8 8s

An interesting work, containing an account of the surrender of General Beresford in Buenos Ayres in 1806; the sending out of reinforcements from England; attack on and capture of Monte Video; Whitelocke's expedition against Buenos Aires; Assault on Buenos Aires, and final evacuation.

[46] AZARA (Félix de). Voyages dans l'Amérique Méridionale, depuis 1781 jusqu'en 1801; Contenant la description geógraphique, politique et civile du Paraguay et de la rivière de la Plata; etc.

Suivis de l'histoire naturelle des Oiseaux du Paraguay et de la Plata.

With the Atlas of 25 plates and folding maps of the Argentine, Uruguay, Paraquay, and the Chaco region, including a plan and view of Buenos Aires, various animals, etc.

4 vols. 8vo, and Atlas 4to. Old half calf.

Paris, 1809. £8 15s

London, 1769. £2 15s

[49] BAPTISTA (Juan). Advertencias. Para los Confessores de los Naturales.
2 vols. 12mo. Levant morocco.
Mexico, M. Ocharte, 1600. £52 10s

Father Baptista was one of the most learned men in Mexico and this present work contains instructions for confessing the Indians and the text of many Papal Bulls concerning ecclesiastical affairs in America. It was printed in the Convent of Santiago Tlatilulco.

[50] ——— A Jesu Christo S.N. Ofrece este Sermonario en Lengua Mexicana.
With a woodcut of the Head of Christ on the title and a full page woodcut of the Crucifixion in the Preface. Small thick 4to. Original vellum.
Mexico, Diego Lopez Davalos, 1606. £25

The only other recorded copy is in the British Museum. The title is dated 1606 but the imprint at end 1607.

A series of sermons in the Mexican language, with a preliminary summary in Spanish. The author mentions that a second part was in the press, but no copy is known and it may never have been issued. The part actually printed may have been included in the present volume which would account for the imprint at the end being a year later than the title.

Original calf, rebacked.
London, 1705. £3 15s
This work relates to "one of the most painful and disgraceful episodes in the history of the British Navy." In August 1702 the British and French fleets met off the coast of Venezuela near Santa Marta. Several of the English vessels refrained from taking part in the engagement, leaving Benbow to take the brunt with the Breda and Falmouth. Kirkby in the Defiance practically fled from the engagement. Benbow was fatally wounded and had to desist from pursuing the enemy. Three of the English commanders, Kirkby, Wade, and Constable were tried at Jamaica by courtmartial for cowardice, disobedience to orders, and neglect of duty. The two former were sentenced to death.

The original Manuscript in the autograph of Bertrand-Moleville, of his Plans for the Liberation of Spanish America, with a covering letter from him to John McArthur, requesting the latter to communicate them to Lord Melville. Also an Autograph Letter from John McArthur to Lord Melville, enclosing the above, together with a Précis in English of the Plans.

Together 59 pp. Folio.

London, 2nd and 7th January, 1805. £38

Bertrand-Moleville, the celebrated French Statesman, was the Minister of the French Royal Marine at the outbreak of the Revolution, and fled to England as a refugee. In his letter he requests John McArthur to bring the enclosed manuscripts to the notice of Lord Melville, and offers his services in the execution of the plan he proposes.

McArthur, in his letter to Lord Melville, states that he has had submitted to his perusal "a plan for alienating the Continent of South America from Spain, and establishing the Province of Mexico as an independent State," which he forwards on to Lord Melville, together with his own "Translation of the Substance of Bertrand de Moleville's plan." In a postscript he remarks that "Mons. de Moleville is preparing a plan to be submitted to Mr. Pitt through Mr. Long, relative to the means to be employed for effecting a Counter Revolution in France, on principles different from those hitherto proposed or attempted."

Bertrand-Moleville's plans for the Independence of Spanish America commence by discussing the futility of a defensive war against France, and state that, as war was about to be declared against Spain, the tool of France, we should strike at Spain's American possessions, and reap the glory of giving them their Independence. Mexico being the part of Spanish America most vulnerable to England, should be the first part to be attacked. The country should not be conquered as a part of the Empire, but rather as a dependency, and a Revolution would be the easiest method of bringing that to pass. The country should be "seduced," a leader chosen for the people to rally round, and the stated object of this Revolution be "the regeneration of the Natives and Empire of Mexico." The best leader that could be chosen for them would be the Duke of Orleans, seconded by his brother, and assisted by an English Army of 15,000 men, and an adequate Naval Force, together with the necessary pecuniary help. Bertrand-Moleville considers that the Spanish Forces in Mexico are by no means adequate for the country's defence, and that "the troops are badly disciplined and not at all warlike."

The Army might include 5 or 6,000 European troops in the pay of England, and English soldiers from Gibraltar, Malta, W. Indies, and India, who would be sufficiently acclimatized. Black troops from the English colonies, to the number of 6,000 might be added, as well as troops recruited in the Island of St. Domingo from the forces of Dessalines (the negro Emperor of Haiti who revolted from the French republic). England should lead Spain to expect an attack on Havana, and in the meantime land her forces at Vera Cruz, which place would soon be overcome. The Army should then march into Mexico as liberators, recruiting "free Corps" en route.

The other papers include various profound political reflections on the motives and means for carrying the plan proposed into execution; also various topographical observations concerning Mexico, the civil and military administration, population, wealth, revenue, and manufactures, and the benefits which would accrue to England. He gives an outline of the Proclamation that the Duke of Orleans should issue in Mexico, and admits the advantage of attacking in South America, but thinks that it would be a much more difficult proposition.

At the end of his translation John McArthur suggests several amendments, among them being that there should also be co-operation on the Pacific coast; and he also makes several objections, among which are: The Great number of troops needed; the policy of giving a foreign Prince to a free Mexico, when they would want their own nominee; the using of black troops; etc.

4to. Calf.

Paris, François Clovzier, 1664. £9 10s

In 1651, a French company obtained from the French Government the cession of Cayenne, which had been abandoned since the death of Brétigny. Four or five hundred colonists left France under the leadership of Royville, and the spiritual direction of the Abbé de l'Isle-Marivault, accompanied by several young priests, among whom was Biet. The Abbé fell into the Seine at the departure of the expedition and was drowned, and Biet was persuaded to take his place, much against his will. The expedition stopped some days at Madeira. During the voyage to Madeira, and whilst there, Royville rather tried to ride the high horse over his associates, and after leaving Madeira, during an illness, whilst sleeping on deck, he was stabbed and dropped overboard. At Cayenne, the colonists and adventurers wasted their time building a new fort instead of repairing the old one and sowing grain for the next year. There was continual strife among themselves, aggravated by the attacks of the Caribbee Indians and the running out of provisions. Those of the colonists who remained embarked in a Dutch vessel for Surinam and so to Barbadoes, where the English gave them a good reception. Biet went on to Martinique to try and arrange for another expedition to Cayenne, but the French there treated him as an English spy. He sailed next to Guadeloupe, whence he returned to France. His work is well written, simply and with candour, and makes quite good reading. At the end is a dictionary of the Caribbee Indian language.

Sabin 9387. Hocken, New Zealand Bibliography, pages 30-34.
The most important general history of early South Sea discoveries, containing practically everything early on the subject, collected from all sources, with most important remarks concerning them by Capt. Burney, who was a great authority on the subject.
Hocken states "This important and comprehensive work brings the history of Pacific discovery down to 1764, when Hawkesworth continues it (in his account of Cook's first voyage, including those of Wallis, Byron and Carteret). It must always form the basis of historical research for early voyages and discoveries throughout the Pacific. In the third volume is the translation of Tasman's journal, with woodcuts and charts of New Zealand, by the Rev. C. G. Woide, and the most complete account until that of Heeres."
Rear Admiral Burney was born in 1751 and died 1821. He was the son of the Musician Burney, and was lieutenant to Cook on his last two voyages. Mme D'Arblay was his sister, and gives many references to him in her diary and letters.

"The present work is the result of observations made during a two years' residence in Mexico, by a lady, whose position there made her intimately acquainted with its society, and opened to her the vast sources of information in regard to whatever could interest an enlightened foreigner. It consists of letters written to the members of her own family, and, really not intended originally—however incredible the assertion—for publication."

Madrid, Cosme Delgado, 1620. £42

An extremely important work in the history of the life of Sir Francis Drake. After Drake's unsuccessful attempt on Porto Rico, where his friend and vice-Admiral Sir John Hawkins died, he again attempted to march across the Isthmus of Panama for an assault on Panama, but the opposition of the forewarned Spaniards was too great and he was obliged to fall back, and died from dysentry soon after his arrival on board his ship. Alonso de Sotomayor, the account of whose military services is given in this work, was in charge of the preparations made for Drake's reception, and a full account of these operations is given, from the Spanish point of view.

Madrid, 1779. £31 10s

The map is a very fine one, on a large scale measuring 67 × 53 cms., and was executed by Louis Surville under the order of Don Joseph Galvez, a noted name in Spanish American history. Caulin spent many years as a missionary in the Northern regions of South America among the Indians, and his descriptions are the most truthful which are extant. He gives long descriptions about the customs, habits, natural products and precious stones which are to be found in many parts of America, and also many details regarding the famous missionaries among the South American Indians.

Seville, Martin de Montesdoca, 1553. £125

The first edition of this notable work, and the sole edition published in Spanish; mentioned, but not owned, by Salva (3293): "One of the most remarkable literary productions of the age of the Spanish conquest in America. It is, in fact, the only book which exhibits the 'physical aspect of the country as it existed under the elaborate culture of the Incas'."

The author of this history was one of the greatest authorities on Peru, where he spent 16 years. He started the work at Popayan in 1541 and finished it in Lima in 1550; the full chronicle consisted of four volumes, of which only the first was published, and deals with the geography, history and ethnology of Peru. According to Leclerc, the three remaining books dealt respectively with: the history of the Incas; the Spanish conquest; and the history of the civil wars.

[174] ——— A Voyage to the South Sea, and Round the World, 1708-11, by the Ships Duke and Dutchess of Bristol. Containing A Journal of all memorable Transactions during the said Voyage. . . . A Description of the American Coasts, from Tierra del Fuego . . . to California . . . , Wherein an Account is given of Mr. Alexander Selkirk, his manner of living and taming some wild Beasts during the four Years and four Months he liv'd upon the uninhabited Island of Juan Fernandes.

With 20 plates and maps in first volume, and 4 maps, 2 plates and 3 tables in second volume. First Collected Edition. 2 vols. 8vo. Original calf.

London, 1712. £28 10s

Apparently there was considerable rivalry between the publishers of Cooke's account of this voyage and the publishers of Woodes Rogers' account to be the first to get their edition on the market. Cooke's account was first out, but only in a single volume, the later part of the voyage being related in a few compressed pages at the end. The publishers almost immediately reprinted the work and extended it to two volumes, the later part of the voyage occupying the whole of volume two.

Edward Cooke was second captain on board the Dutchess, the ship which accompanied the Duke, both under Woodes Rogers, on a privateering voyage round the world. Captain Burney says that Cooke's journal and charts are inferior to those published by Woodes Rogers. Dampier, who projected the expedition, and prevailed upon some able persons at Bristol to venture upon the undertaking, went as pilot in the Duke. It is generally supposed that De Foe took his "Robinson Crusoe" from the account here given of Alex. Selkirk, as it was the first book containing it.

This expedition sailed across the Pacific Ocean from California to Guam, in the Marianas, in the early part of 1710. On arriving at Guam the author tells how Spaniards there told them that one of their vessels had discovered a group of islands which they called the Solomon Islands, which had not been seen for a great many years.

The second half of volume two comprises sailing directions for the American coast, and is illustrated with many woodcut diagrams of coast lines, etc. The introduction to the second volume gives further additional particulars regarding Alex. Selkirk.

THE ORIGINAL EDITION OF CORTES' SECOND LETTER.

[179] CORTES (Hernando). Carta de relacion enbiada a su S. Majestad del Emperador nuestro señor, por el Capitan General de la Nueva España.

With the large woodcut portrait of Charles V on the title. Folio. Levant morocco, g.e.
Seville, Cromberger, 1522. £1,350

This is the earliest existing letter of Cortes and is dated from Mexico, Oct. 30, 1520. In it he traces the events after his departure from Vera Cruz when he and the Spaniards had been driven back from Mexico City. He speaks at length of his dealings with Montezuma, and among other matters suggests the name of New Spain for Mexico.

This volume is one of the half dozen outstanding books of American interest.

[243] ERCILLA Y ZUNIGA (Alonso). La Araucana.
Second Edition. 12mo. Old calf.
Salamanca, 1574. £8 10s

The author served in the expedition sent from Peru against the Araucanian Indians of Chile, under the leadership of Garcia de Mendoza, in 1556. Curiously enough he was in England at the wedding of Philip II and Queen Mary when he learnt of the trouble in South America and decided to seek military service there. The events of the war are described in this poem.

Small 4to. Half morocco.
(Madrid), 1741. £6 6s

In March, 1741, Admiral Vernon, with a large fleet, and an army of 9,000 men under the command of Brigadier-General Wentworth, arrived off Carthagena. The divided command, the incompetence and self-conceit of Wentworth, and the natural antipathy between the two characters caused delays which proved fatal. The forts guarding the entrance to the harbour were reduced, and the fleet cut the boom blocking the Boca-Chica, and passed into the harbour. Wentworth delayed his attack on the forts dominating the City for four days, so giving the Spaniards time to recover. When he did assault, his attack was beaten off with heavy loss. The wet season set in, and of the force of 6,600 who had landed more than half were dead or dying. On April 17, the miserable remnant re-embarked, and the fleet returned to Port Royal.

This "Diary" is the official Spanish Account of this unsuccessful attack on Carthagena, drawn up from the accounts sent to the King of Spain by the Viceroy of Santa Fè and his Adjutant-General.

4to. pp. 4: 16. Newly bound by Rivière in full polished calf, gilt, g.e.

Darlington, 1788. £13 10s

This was printed at the instigation of Thomas Pennant, who whilst journeying heard that Father Falkener was living near Worcester, and paid him a visit. This book contains the description of the Patagonians related by Father Falkener in his conservation with Pennant.

[266] FALKLAND'S ISLANDS, Papers relative to. Manuscript Letter-Book, containing the Official Admiralty Correspondence relating to the Disputes between England, France, and Spain over the Falkland Islands, or Islas Malvinas, from 1765 to 1770, apparently written by the Secretary to the Admiralty, Philip Stevens.

Small 8vo. 178 pp. Half vellum.

1770. £15 15s

An extremely valuable record for the early history of the Falkland Islands. Some of the later documents contained therein were published in 1777 in a work issued partly at the instigation of Dr. Samuel Johnson, entitled "Papers relative to the late Negotiation with Spain; and the taking of Falkland's Island from the English."

[273] FERNANDEZ DE OVIEDO Y VALDES (Gonzalo de). La Historia General de las Indias.

LIBRO XX De la segunda parte de la General Historia de las Indias . . . Que trata del Estrecho de Magallans.

Printed in Black Letter. First title in red and black and with a number of woodcut illustrations in the first work.

Original Editions. 2 works in 1 vol. Folio. Levant morocco, gilt, g.e.

Seville, 1535, and Valladolid, 1557. £550

The Author was a member of an old Asturian family and was an eye-witness of the events on the isthmus which directly led to the discovery of Peru. He went to America in 1513 with the Governor Pedrárius, and was at Panama when Pizarro and Almagro were fitting out their first expedition. He lived for over twenty years in America, many of them in Hispaniola, and held high positions there, including the Governorship of Carthagena and as Chronicler of the Indies. His position gave him every opportunity to acquire all information concerning the men and events of the time and his narrative is interspersed with many anecdotes and personal reminiscences, although rather biased with partisan feelings.

"Authority was given him by the Emperor to demand from the different governors of Spanish America such documents as he might need for this work. He gives a vivid picture of conditions as they then existed, and his work, which possesses considerable literary merit, is a vast storehouse of facts relating to the times. This is the source from which most literary writers have drawn their accounts of the early occurrences in the New World."

The authors original autograph signature is given at the foot of the last page of the first work. The XXth Book, which was published separately, was intended to form the first part of Volume II, but in consequence of the author's death, no more was issued.

Title printed in red and black, black letter type, and with various woodcut illustrations in the text.

Folio. Levant morocco, gilt, g.e., by Rousselle, enclosed in a levant morocco case.

Salamanca, Juan de Junta, 1547. £450

This rare edition contains a report sent to the King by Francisco de Xerez, with separate title bearing a woodcut of armoured knights, and separate pagination, entitled "Conquista del Peru. Verdadera relacion de la conquista del Peru y Provincia del Cuzco Llamada la nueva Castilla. Conquistada por Francisco Pizarro," etc.

Xeres was secretary to Pizarro and went out with him from Spain in 1530. This report was written by order of Pizarro and was first printed in 1534 directly after his return from America. Xeres endeavours to extenuate the deeds of rapine, destruction and massacre which took place during the conquest.

This edition contains the full fifty books, the last thirty of which had lain unpublished in manuscript from the year 1557, when the XXth book was issued by itself.

[278] FERNANDEZ PIEDRAHITA (Lucas). Historia general de las Conquistas del Nuevo Reyno de Granada. (Colombia).

With three fine engraved titles, containing 31 medallion portraits of the Spanish conquerors of Colombia, and of famous Indians, and also four views of battles, Choconta, Bueltas, Portachuelo, and Voqueron. Folio. Original vellum.

Antwerp, Juan Baptista Verdussen (1688). £35

"A work of the highest importance for the early history of New Granada."

"This work was written from the manuscripts of Gonzalo Ximenez de Quesada, the conqueror of Columbia, and the first European to penetrate the Cundinamarca Mountains. New Granada is one of the parts of America about which we possess the fewest documents."

Only the Parte Primera was ever published of this standard history of the early days of New Granada. It brings the narrative down to 1562, and begins with an account of the natives and their customs, laws, and kingdoms for many years previous to the conquest.

[279] [FERNYHOUGH (Capt. Thos.). Military Memoirs of Four Brothers, (Natives of Staffordshire), Engaged in the Service of their Country, as well in the New World and Africa, as on the Continent of Europe. By the Survivor.

10 pp. Folio.
(Madrid, 1640). £4 4s
In the lengthy relation of the Claimant's services and merits an account is given of the father Don Juan Gutierrez Flores, who fought in Florida and Peru, and was a high official of the Inquisition in Lima and Corregidor of the City of La Paz. An uncle of the claimant died in Chile. Another uncle, Doctor Pedro Guitierrez Flores, was an official in the American Casa de Contratacion at Seville, served also in Peru in the absence of the Viceroy Don Francisco de Toledo, and made the laws of Peru still in use there. Another uncle, Don Pedro Ordoñez y Flores, was Inquisitor of Peru for more than twenty years, and prepared many autos da fé. The claimant's great grandfather was the famous Captain Hernando de Montenegro, one of the first Conquistadors of Peru, about whom an important letter of Pedro de la Gasca (three pages in extent) is here printed for the first time.
At the close are some manuscript additions.

This work forms one of the most valuable of our early records of the Falkland Islands, and to Frézier we are indebted for the clearest contemporary account of the Navigation of the French seamen there. Most of these navigators, including Frézier himself, were from St. Malo, and thus the islands became known as the Malouines. To Frézier we are also indebted for the statement that "these Islands are certainly the same which Sir Richard Hawkins discover'd in 1593," a statement often quoted later at the time of the English, French, and Spanish claims to the Falkland Islands.

This English edition is preferable to the original French edition of 1716, as it contains Dr. Edmund Halley's Postscript, correcting certain Geographical errors made by Frézier. Halley is of course most famous now as the discoverer of Halley's Comet. At the end is a 13 pp. account of the Joint Settlement in Paraguay. The work also contains an interesting account of guano, at page 147.

[289] FROGER (T.). A Relation of a Voyage made in the Years 1695-7, on the Coasts of Africa, Streights of Magellan, Brasil, Cayenna, and the Antilles, by a Squadron of French Men of War, under the Command of M. de Gennes. By the Sieur Froger, Voluntier Engineer on board the English Falcon.

With engraved plates and maps. First Edition in English. 8vo. Original calf.

London, Gillyflower, 1698. £7 10s

This expedition was undertaken for the purpose of founding a French settlement in the Straits of Magellan. Some French buccaneers who had preyed on the Spaniards round the coasts of South America and in the South Seas and who had settled for some time in the Straits of Magellan proposed the project to De Gennes who was of an adventurous nature, and a Company was formed at Paris with Government approbation for carrying it out. The project failed. This account of the expedition is especially noteworthy for its details of natural history subjects and for the accuracy of Froger's South American charts.

With his various Adventures, Engagements, etc., and a particular and exact description of several Islands in the Atlantick Ocean, the Brazilian Coast, the Passage round Cape Horn, and the Coasts of Chili, Peru, and Mexico. Together with the Author's Voyage from Amapalla on the West Coast of Mexico, to East India. His passing by Three Unknown Islands, and thro' a New-discover'd Streight near the Coast of New Guinea; His arrival at Amboyna: with a large description of that and other spice Islands; as also of Batavia, the Cape of Good Hope, etc.

With 9 engraved plates and 5 maps. First Edition. 8vo. Contemporary calf.

London, 1707. £10 10s

"Funnell arrived in England before Dampier and seized on the opportunity to compose a relation of his voyage, a task for which he was ill-qualified, and which he performed with disadvantage to the public. His narrative contained much that was disapproved by Dampier, who immediately after published a "Vindication of his Voyage," pointing out the misrepresentations of Funnell. This brought out "An Answer" from John Welbe, a midshipman on board Dampier's ship, in which he charges the captain with barbarous treatment of his crew."

London, E. Cotes, 1655. £10 10s

An extremely interesting work relating to Mexico and various parts of Central America where the author lived for many years as a Dominican Friar. He afterwards joined the Church of England, and wrote this work, the first to give to the World a description of the vast regions from which all foreigners had been jealously excluded by the Spanish authorities. It is supposed to have incited the attacks on the Spanish territories and colonies during Cromwell's time. Gage was appointed Chaplain to the forces which captured Jamaica where he died in 1656.

The preliminary leaves include a 4 page poem on the author by Thomas Chaloner.

Seville, 1723. £9 15s

This rare work is divided into three books, the first of which contains the life of Father Bethencourt, the founder of the Order of Bethlehem in Guatemala, 1673. The work further contains the history of this Order and the life of the chief missionaries. It furnishes us with important documents for the history of the Monastic Orders in Mexico.

Father José Bethencourt was a descendant of the celebrated John de Bethencourt, the discoverer of the Canary Islands.

[306] GELVES (Marques of). Memorial de lo sucedido en la ciudad de Mexico, desde el dia primero de Noviembre, de 1623 hasta quinze de Enero de 1624.

Folio. 25 leaves.

(Mexico), 1624. £8 8s

Don Diego Carillo de Mendoza y Pimentel, Marquis of Gelves, seventeenth Viceroy of Mexico, succeeded to his title in September, 1621; his nature was hard and he was subject to fits of temper. From the beginning of his rule he decided to clear the roads of the highwaymen from which they were infested. He disbelieved everything that was told him about the inundations to which the City of Mexico was subject, and in order to show that the height of the Lagoons could prevent the floods from taking place, he had the dykes of the Rio de Cuautitlan broken through. The river immediately covered the lagoons and was the cause that in December, 1623, at the time of the rains the town was inundated. The quarrels that he had with the Archbishop Juan Perez de la Serna caused the revolt under the leadership of Pedro de Vergara Gaviria, senior judge of the Supreme Court of Mexico, to break out in the month of January, 1624, which obliged the Viceroy to seek refuge in the Convent of San Francisco, which he only left to re-embark for Spain at the end of the same year.

This document is written in favour of the Archbsihop. As soon as the Marquis de Gelves returned home he answered this Memorial with some Pamphlets of his own, in 1625. See also under Vergara Gaviria.

First Edition. Folio. Morocco.
London, John Jaggard, 1622. £31 10s

The original account of one of the most famous voyages in English History. Hawkins intended to circumnavigate the Globe and visit and trade with Japan, the Philippines, Moluccas, China and India. He sailed into the Pacific with only one vessel, The Dainty, his pinnace having deserted off the River Plate. He then proceeded to cruise against the Spaniards, plundered Valparaiso and took various prizes. News had, however, been sent overland of his intended voyage, and on June 18, 1594 he was trapped in the Bay of Santa Matea, by two large Spanish ships carrying a force outnumbering his own by ten to one. After fighting for three days he capitulated and was conducted to Panama, where his journal closes.

Instead of being sent back to England, as had been promised, he was taken to Lima, was rescued from the clutches of the Inquisition by the Viceroy and sent to Spain, where he remained a prisoner for five years before being liberated.

Small 8vo. Half calf.

(Edinburgh), Printed in the Year 1700. £4 15s

Collation: PP. XIX, 1-60, 145-167.

The volume contains accounts of the life of Wm. Paterson, the founder of the Scheme; of how the Company was floated, and of its leading members; the expedition, and of the occurrences at Darien. The introduction is an appeal to Scotchmen not to waste their money in the Scheme. In one place the Author suggests that having once founded the Panama Colony, it was the Scots' intention to pass "over that Isthmus to the Phillipin Islands, California, China, and to Japan, if they could turn Dutch Men."

The whole work is written in an extraordinary satirical manner, and raised tremendous indignation in Scotland, so much so that the Treasury was required to offer a reward of £6,000 Scots for the arrest of the author, and the book was condemned to be burnt by the public hangman. At the time a certain Walter Herries was supposed to be the author, but Halkett and Laing attribute it to James Hodges.

With the supplementary Volume VII containing further information relating to Cuba, etc., and which is often missing.

On June 5, 1799, Humboldt and Bonpland, armed with powerful recommendations, sailed from Corunna to the Canary Islands, where they stopped for a short time and made the ascent of the peak of Teneriffe. Thence they proceeded to Caracas in Venezuela, and in Feb., 1800, left the coast for the purpose of exploring the course of the Orinoco. "This trip, which lasted four months, and covered seventeen hundred and twenty-five miles of wild and uninhabited country, had the important result of establishing the existence of a communication between the water-systems of the Orinoco and the Amazon and of determining the exact position of the bifurcation. On 24 Nov. the two friends sailed for Cuba, and after a stay of some months regained the mainland at Cartagena. Ascending the swollen stream of the Magdalena, and crossing the frozen ridges of the Cordilleras, they reached Quito after a tedious and difficult journey, Jan. 6, 1802. There they ascended Picchincha and Chimborazo, and made an expedition to the sources of the Amazon, en route for Lima. At Callao Humboldt observed the transit of Mercury, and studied the fertilizing properties of guano, the introduction of which into Europe was mainly due to his writings. After a year's stay in Mexico, and a short visit to the U.S.A., they returned to Europe."

In this famous expedition Humboldt may justly be regarded as having laid the foundation of the sciences of physical geography and meteorology in their larger bearings. His services to geology were mainly based on his attentive study of the volcanoes of the New World.

CONCERNING BUENOS AYRES.

[368] IBARRA (Dr. Alvaro de). Informe en derecho por el illmo. Sor. Don Fray Christoval de Mancha, Obispo de la Provincia de Buenos Aires, en defensa de la libertad Ecclesiastica, contra los estatutos, que promulgò Don Jacinto de Laris, Cavallero del Orden de Santiago, Governador del Puerto de Buenos Aires.
7 leaves. Folio.
(No place, 1649). £6 6s

On August 5, 1649, the Governor of Buenos Ayres, Don Jacinto de Laris, published a Statute making it unlawful for the Convents or Religious Communities to buy up the various estates in the neighbourhood, on the grounds that it prevented the entrance of the ordinary settlers, on whom the safety of the Province depended. In this present document the Bishop repudiates that Edict, as being contrary to the Ecclesiastical liberty, and beyond the due power of the Governor to authorize, and threatens to have him excommunicated.

It is interesting that the Governor had been particularly careful to arrange for the posting up, in various parts of Buenos Ayres, of each copy of his edict, to be carefully witnessed by several leading citizens.

"These revelations exhibit so monstrous a system that it is difficult to realise that the revelations are true."

"The above is an extensive report designed for the instruction of the King. It was not generally known until it was published in London by David Barry in 1826. It is the most frank and searching examination of the affairs of the colonies that has come down from the colonial period. It presents the abuses of the courts, the civil employees, the corregidores, and the clergy. It treats, moreover, of the contraband trade, the frauds that appeared in the various branches of the administration, the scandalous acts of the officials, and the oppression and the cruelty of the Spaniards in their dealing with the Indians. It describes the state of the ports and the lack of arms and of other means for defending the coast against invaders, and sets forth the increasing hostility between the Spaniards and the creoles. It makes exceedingly damaging specifications as to the treatment which the Indians received at the hands of the corregidores, the manufacturers, and the priests."

4to. Polished calf, gilt, g.e., by Rivière.

Leipzig, 1672. £31 10s

Sabin (37675) remarks concerning this: "A volume of much rarity and value." The full title reads in translation: "Otto Keye's short sketch of New Netherland and Guiana, compared together to shew the difference between warm and cold countries, and to shew which of the two is the most pleasant to live in, the most capable of culture and can give the greater profit to those who think of establishing colonies there, as also for those persons and families who, to forget their country, wish to find another in foreign lands and regions."

Asher gives a long account of this work in his book on New Netherland, and writes: "The author having an interest in the Colony of Guiana, to which he was attached as an officer, here attempts to shew how much Guiana is superior to New Netherland for the purposes of colonisation, and so, to prove that false thesis, he generalises his theme and speaks of the advantages that warm countries have over cold ones." 8vo. Half morocco.

London, 1747. £3 15s

La Condamine was a member, with Godin and Bouguer, of the great French Scientific Expedition to South America, for measuring an arc of the meridian at the Equator for more accurately determining the dimensions and figure of the earth. In order to increase their opportunities for making observations the members of the expedition decided to return from Peru by different routes, and La Condamine chose to return by way of the river Amazon, which he did, so making the first scientific exploration of that river, the account of which journey is contained in this work.

La Casas, the Apostle to the Indians and their great defender against Spanish cruelty, was born at Seville in 1474 and died at the great age of ninety-two at Madrid. In 1502 he went out and settled in the West Indies and soon became the advocate of the Indians against the terrible wrongs committed by their conquerors. This drew on him the animosity of his countrymen and was not successful in stopping the atrocities. He returned to Spain in 1515 and appealed to his Sovereign, whose untimely death upset his endeavours. Wearied out by his fruitless efforts he retired to a Monastery in Santo Domingo and spent eight years in study and writing. Publication of his books was at first forbidden, but after a lapse of twelve years these tracts, which form one of the most gruesome books ever written, were finally published.

This is the enlarged edition of Leon Pinelo's original bibliography of travel, the first to contain a catalogue of books on America. The additions, by Don Andres Gonzalez de Barcia (who modestly refrains from mentioning his own name in connection with the work) are so considerable as almost to constitute a new work; Leon Pinelo's original work consisting of a quarto volume of 200 pages, and this "second edition" by Barcia, comprising three folio volumes of closely printed matter, containing about 1,300 pages.

The second volume deals with America.

[428] LEON PINELO (Antonio de). Tratado de Confirmaciones Reales de Encomiendas, Oficios i casos, en que se requieren para las Indias Occidentales.

With finely engraved title.

Small 4to. Old calf, with Arms of the Marquis de Caracena on sides.

Madrid, 1630. £105

This work relates principally to the new laws for the Indies drafted by Charles V in 1542, many of which were rescinded later, after the rebellion of Gonzalo Pizarro, as the clauses affecting land-tenure and slave-grants had led to bitter dissatisfaction on the part of the descendants of the first Spanish settlers and conquistadores.

The work was written at the request of Don Lorenço Ramirez de Prado, of the Council of the Indies, to whom it is dedicated. Leon Pinelo was asked to suggest which of the old laws he considered should be maintained or revived for the common welfare of the Indians, and in doing this work contributed a valuable commentary on the contemporary social and economic history of America.

For many years the town of Pisco, about a hundred and fifty miles south of Lima, had been the centre for the distribution of innumerable examples of pottery, textiles, vessels and ornaments of gold, the records of an ancient civilization in Peru earlier than that of the Incas. The great part of this treasure trove was looted from the prehistoric cemeteries in the Peninsula of Paracas close to Pisco.

During recent years this indiscriminate digging has been forbidden, and excavations are now made in a careful and scientific manner under supervision of the Government. Not the least interesting of the discoveries made is that of examples of remarkable textiles strongly reminiscent of those of ancient Egypt, Persia, China, and India, and the earliest known of American manufacture, the decoration and colouring of which point to an advanced state of civilization, which, however, did not seem to have possessed any form of writing.

The work of Mme. Jean Levillier gives an account of these textiles, with numerous reproductions of special examples. The soil and climate of Paracas have been singularly favourable to their preservation. The former is impregnated with saltpetre, which has acted as a preservative, and the latter is almost entirely free from moisture.

A work of the greatest interest to students of the early history of South America, describing the Spanish conquest of the great inland Provinces of the Argentine, then known under the general name of Tucaman; the disasters suffered by the Spaniards at the hands of the Indians; their quarrels among themselves and disputes between the Governments of Peru and Chile over the new territories. The author shews how the real conquest of the Argentine was accomplished from the interior rather than from Buenos Aires and the Rio de la Plata, and tells how Buenos Aires, abondoned by Irala, owed its second foundation, forty years later, to these new conquests.

This important Biography covers a period of twelve years in the early history of Peru, Panama, Quito, Charcas (Bolivia), Chili, Tucuman, Paraguay and Rio de la Plata. It is almost entirely based on original manuscripts found in the Archives of Spain and America and is profusely illustrated with views of places in Peru, and also reproduces for the first time many of the drawings contained in the original unpublished Chronicle written by Poma de Ayala in Cuzco between the years 1580 and 1620.

Don Francisco de Toledo, Viceroy of Peru from 1569 to 1581, worked unceasingly to ameliorate the condition of the Indians. Unfortunately his reforms worked against many of the interests of the Spanish settlers and brought him numerous enemies, who took every opportunity to attack him, both during his lifetime and after his death. The charges brought against him were, firstly, that he had unjustly executed Tupac Amaru, the last descendant of the Inca Kings; secondly, that he had used his position to illegally acquire a large fortune; and thirdly, that he had been accumulating incorrect data concerning the history and origin of the Incas.

A large part of the first volume relates to the execution of Tupac Amaru, and shews that the sentence, although severe, was just according to the laws of the time. The work also deals with Toledo's disciplinary reforms, his efforts to enforce justice, and to protect the Indians, to keep the Judges and the Ecclesiastical Authorities to their duty, and his endeavours to make the Government agents respect their obligations towards their King and towards the Indians. It also tells of the new cities he founded and of the schools and hospitals he created all over the Viceroyalty and of the many other examples of his colossal constructive and administrative work.

Francisco Lopez de Gomara was the Secretary of Cortes and the oldest of the proper historians of the New World. The works he produced, besides one or two of less consequence, were, first, his "History of the Indies," which, after the Sapnish fashion, begins with the creation of the world and ends with the glories of Spain, though it is chiefly devoted to Columbus and the discovery and conquest of Peru; and the second, his "Chronicle of New Spain," which is the history and life of Cortes. As the earliest records that were published concerning affairs which already stirred the whole of Christendom, these works had, at once, a great success.

Manuscript on 123 pp. 12mo. Roan.

The "Colonel Allan," 332 Tons, was formerly a French Sloop of War, named "Le Bernie," mounting 18 guns. She sailed from Gravesend, August 19, 1817, on a voyage to South America. Her captain was Donald McLellan and the author of this extremely interesting journal was evidently the surgeon or medical officer on board. The total complement numbered thirty-seven.

After a voyage of fifty-five days, the River Plate was reached, and anchor finally dropped at Buenos Aires. The author tells how he stayed at the "Three Kings" there at inclusive terms of two and a half dollars a day. He gives a long description of the city which then had a population of 50,000. He remarks that "the streets are very narrow and formed into squares, and altho some are paved the generality of them are not, and so shamefully neglected that after heavy rains they are almost impassable and the horses often sink into the mud up to their bellies." Attempts had been made by some English settlers to cultivate some of the surrounding fertile country but the inhabitants drove their cattle into the plantations. They had no redress and if any opposition had been made would doubtless have been murdered. It was highly dangerous to walk the streets after dark for fear of being killed.

From Buenos Aires the ship sailed to Monte Video, then in Portuguese hands. The civil population was only from five to six thousand but some nine thousand troops were quartered there. The city was being besieged by the independent patriot General Artigas.

They next sailed through the Strait of Le Maire to Valparaiso, which they made in 39 days despite 11 days of storm. The previous trip they had made the passage in 28 days which was the fastest then on record. As it was they arrived some days earlier than boats which had left Buenos Aires days before them. The people at Valparaiso were daily expecting an attack from the Royalist Army at Lima and were preparing fortifications. Supplies were taken aboard and Christmas was spent at sea. On calling at Pisagua they were mistaken by the inhabitants for a pirate from Buenos Aires or Valparaiso. An account is given of the vast number of Indian Graves found at various spots along the coast. For a time the boat sails between the villages of Ilo, Moro de Sama and Pisagua carrying on an illicit trade. Whilst ashore at Pisagua with the Captain and the first mate the author was suddenly ambushed by a party of soldiers. After endeavouring to escape into the sea he was shot at and wounded and with his friends taken prisoner and escorted inland by the military under Don Pedro Obligado to Tarapaca. Here they were kept prisoners awaiting the arrival of the magistrate or sub-delegate from Piso. They were able to satisfy this gentleman that they were only on the coast for taking in water and supplies and were ultimately released on paying the expense of their capture, and giving some $1200 worth of presents to their friends! A long account is given of Tarapaca and its neighbourhood.

The Captain managed to steer clear of several Spanish warships which he believed were on the lookout for him, and put in at Pacasmayo, to the north of Trujillo, where he was able to dispose of the best part of his merchandise to advantage. Whilst here he learnt that Spanish forces had just sailed to the south looking for him and that another vessel was at a short distance to the north. He therefore set sail for the Galapagos Islands. On the voyage one of the crew mutinied and on ordering some of the others to flog him they also refused and were put into irons. He feared a repetition of what had recently occurred on the "Liberty," whose crew had mutinied, set their officers on shore and turned pirates, and this determined him to get straight back to the River Plate.

The author gives a fairly long account of the Galapagos Islands and then describes the voyage back through the strait of Le Maire to Monte Video where the mutineers were paid off and set on shore on May 10, 1818.

This volume is not exactly a reprint of the edition of 1555, though, like that, the larger portion is taken up with Peter Martyr's Decades of the New World and Oviedo's History of the West Indies. It contains a number of important additions not to be found in the earlier edition, and appeared after the death of Eden, which took place in 1576. It was "Newly set in order, augmented, and finished by Richard Willes," who mentions the part he took in the work in the Dedicatory Epistle to the Countess of Bedford.

In this edition are added for the first time:—

(1) Willes' Epistle and Preface to the Reader: 16 preliminary pages.
(2) For M. Captayne Furbisher's passage for the North-west (by Willes): folios 230-236.
(3) Certayne reportes of the province China (by Willes): folios 237-251.
(4) Of the Ilande Giapan, and other Isles in the East Ocean (by Willes): folios 251-260.
(5) The voyages of Persia, traueiled by the merchauntes of London: folios 321-336.
(6) The Navigation and Voyages of Lewes Vertomannus (translated by Eden): folios 354-421.

In this separate publication the author has amplified his history of the Inquisition of Peru, with which the Chilean Inquisition was closely associated; and has evolved a most fascinating exposition of the secret methods of the Holy Office, from the most authentic source: the Inquisitorial archives in the Castle of Simancas in Spain. Chapters are devoted to the case of the first heretic tried in Chile, Alonso de Escobar; the case of the Judge who became a defendant in a consequent case (the Maestro Francisco de Paredes); the process against Pedro Sarmiento de Gamboa and his arrest and condemnation prior to his famous voyage to the Magellan Strait; the trial of English pirates; autos de fé; organization and procedure of the Inquisition in Chile; and a résumé of the history of the first American Inquisition in Mexico. Appended is a register of names of the delinquents tried at the Chilean tribunal.

THE ORIGINAL SECRET MANUSCRIPT REPORT FROM THE SUPREME COURT (AUDIENCIA) OF MEXICO TO JOSEPH BONAPARTE AND TO THE CORTES OF SPAIN, INFORMING HIM OF THE GENERAL DISAFFECTION IN THAT COLONY.

[494] ——— Informe relativo al extravio general de la opinion publica y al riesgo de perderse que consiguimente amenaza a estas provincias.

Original secret manuscript report from the Supreme Court of Mexico (together with a covering letter dated Mexico, 18th November, 1813, signed by the eleven judges), informing the King of Spain of the general frenzy of public opinion, of the threatened loss of the provinces of Mexico and the only remedies that were possible. In 270 paragraphs.

Legibly written on 154 pages of paper. Small folio, in buckram case. £25

A remarkable report informing the Spanish Government that "Mexico was only to be compared to a furious volcano that was about to pour streams of lava and burst into a general conflagration. The report details the abuses of the Spanish Administration and states that the laws that once made Mexico happy were now urging Mexico into dissolution through scandalous and irremediable abuses."

It is of great interest that in 1815, little more than a year after the report had been sent to Spain, the second Mexican revolt (under Morelos) broke out to be followed by Mina's rising in 1826, while in 1821 the Viceroy was beaten in battle. In 1822 Mexico became a Federal Republic. In 1829 the victory of Tampico assured Mexico's independence.

With an engraved folding map of America.

12mo. Levant morocco, gilt, g.e., by Rivière.

London, Ric. Hodgkinsonne for Edw. Dod at the Gun in Ivy-lane, 1655. £42

Church Catalogue 542. Sabin 51678

There are three variants of the title in this book; this particular issue has the name London in italics

"The work was evidently written with a view to instigating the English to conquer the Spanish dominions in America, though the author or publisher disclaimed any such intention in his advertisement 'To the Reader.'"

The book is divided into two parts, the first treating of the general discovery of America and of its products. Chapter 4 is entitled "Of some particular Adventures made by the English into the parts of America; especially those of Sir Francis Drake, Sir Thomas Cavendish, the Lord Admiral Clifford, and others, which are briefly related."

The second part contains particular accounts of the various parts of America, such as Estotiland (Northern Canada and Labrador), Canada, Virginia, Florida, California, New-Gallicia, New-Spain, Guatimala, Peruana, Castella Aurea, New-Granada, Peru, Chile, Paraguay or Rio de la Plata, Brasil, Guiana, Paria or New-Andalusia, West Indies.

Pages 439-451 relate to Brazil, and describe in detail the various Prefectures of St. Vincent, Rio de Janeiro, Puerto Seguro, Dos Ilheos, Todos los Santos, Fernambuck, Tamaraca, Parayba, Rio Grande, Siara, Maragnon, and Para.

With folding maps of the Straits of Magellan, and the N. Polar Regions, table, and 19 plates, some of whaling subjects. First Edition. 8vo. Original calf.

London, 1694. £14 14s

This work is of particular South American interest on account of its description of the passage through the Straits of Magellan, an account which was made much use of by later navigators. Bulkeley and Cummins with the "Wager" survivors used this work for their navigation of the passage. It is also of great value on account of its New Zealand and Tasmanian interest and for its details on whaling.

With folding map of the Straits of Magellan. Small 4to. Original vellum.
Cadiz, (1769). £7 15s
The work gives an account of the Spanish expedition sent out by order of Philip III immediately after the return of Schouten's expedition, for the exploration of Magellan's Straits. The brothers Nodel sailed from Lisbon on 27th December, 1618, and did not return until July 9 of the following year. They had with them two Dutch pilots, Jan de Witte, named in the narrative, and Valentine Jansz, who wrote another account of the same voyage, which is preserved in the Archives of the Hague. They had both been with Schouten on his voyage. The Strait Le Maire was re-christened Saint Vincent, which name it retained for some time on Spanish maps.
The map accompanying this work is supposed to have been suppressed. It enters more into detail than that of Le Maire, and has a special value of its own.
The second portion of the work has separate title and pagination and comprises a work on Navigation in N. America by Manuel de Echevelar, "Instruccion exacta, y util de las Derrotas, y Navegaciones, que se execution en todos tiempos en la America Septentrional, de unos Puertos à otros."

Valladolid, 1555.
(See Illustration, Frontispiece). £375

An exceedingly important work. The first part tells of the author's travels in the southern parts of the U.S.A. from Tampa Bay to Mexico. He was one of the survivors of the Narvaez expedition which set out for the conquest of Florida in 1527 and is the first record of European travel in the territory of the United States.

In 1541 Nunez Cabeça de Vaca was appointed Governor of Rio de la Plata. He arrived in Uruguay and travelled to Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, as Buenos Aires had been recently abandoned. "He explored the Paraguay and Parana regions, conciliated the Indian tribes and discovered the route towards Peru. At the instigation of his lieutenant Domingo de Irala he was arrested and sent back to Spain in 1545, where he spent several years in freeing himself from the charges brought against him."

The second part of the work is here published for the first time. It was written by the Governor's Secretary, Pero Hernandez, whilst the former was in prison. At the end is given an account made in 1545 by Hermando de Ribera of a journey of exploration up the River Paraguay sent out by the Governor.

Original Manuscript, closely but very clearly written on about 300 pages, containing a summary of the laws affecting the Indian subjects of the Spanish Crown, since the early part of the 16th century, dealing largely with the holding and treatment of slaves.
Circa 1595. £42

The manuscript is divided into ten sections and was evidently intended to be the first part of a more exhaustive study of the judicial and social history of Spanish America. There is no record of its ever having been printed, but it is possible that the writer was a collaborator of Duarte Nuñez de Leon, a celebrated sixteenth-century lawyer and chronicler, who compiled a great legal work which remained unpublished.

Original manuscript on 178 pp. Small 4to. Half calf.
Circa 1746. £35

This manuscript, written by an anonymous Jesuit priest, tells how in 1731 Father Francisco Antonio Gonzalez reported to the Spanish Government the great spiritual needs of the natives in the Orinoco Region, and in consequence Col. Carlos Lucré was appointed to the command in the districts of Cumana and Guayana with instructions to fortify the district against the incursions of the Carib Indans and other slave raiders, and to give all possible help to the Jesuit Missionaries. The first missionaries appointed were Father Joseph Gumilla, who afterwards achieved fame as the historian and explorer of the Orinoco, Father Bernardo Rotella and a companion. They set off down the Rivers Casanare and Meta, then down the Orinoco to the sea, where they were to await the arrival of Don Carlos Lucré. The Governor, however, failed to turn up, and Father Gumilla set off to obtain help from Trinidad which he secured only at great difficulty and personal expense. Father Gumilla returned and spent the greater part of his life in these parts, writing his famous work "El Orinoco Ilustrado," which was published a short time before the writing of this manuscript.

The writer continues to describe events in the Orinoco Missions up to the year 1744, endeavouring, as far as possible, to avoid duplicating information given by Father Gumilla in his book.

The author of the work is not known for certain. The Jesuit Order licensed Father Francisco Xavier Fluvia to have the book printed. Beristain attributes the authorship to Father Juan Francisco Lopez, but later ascribes the work to Father José Ortega, and refers to chapter 25 of the first book in confirmation thereof.

"This book is a history of the missions in Nayarit, or Grand Nayar and Pimeria Alta. Father José Ortega was born in the city of Tlaxcala on 15th April, 1700, and in 1717 he entered the Company of Jesus in Tepozotlan. After finishing his studies as a novice, he was sent to the Missions of Nayarit, where he worked for 30 years."

Book I. is entitled "Marvellous Conquest of the Province of St. Joseph of Gran Nayar, in the new Kingdom of Toledo," and extends to 224 pages in which the efforts of the following are described: Capitan Don Francisco Bracamonte, Father Antonio Margil, Father Thomas de Solchaga, General Don Gregorio Mathias de Mendiola, Marques de Valero, Don Juan Flores de S. Pedro. Book II. (pp 224-344) "Beginnings, Progress and Decay of the Religious Conquest of the Province of Pimeria Alta through the death of Father Eusebio Francisco Kino." Book III. (pp. 344-447) "Of the new progress, various discoveries and present state of Pimeria Alta." (In this book pp. 391-415 contain the diary of the Journey in California by Father Fernando Consag, etc.

This extremely scarce work relates to the disputes among the members of the Dominican, Franciscan, and Augustinian Orders in Mexico, in which the celebrated Bishop of Puebla, Palafox y Mendoza, took a prominent part. It appears to be one of the earliest works printed at Puebla de los Angeles, by the printer of the secret papers of the Inquisition there, Francisco Robledo. There were a large number of works printed in Mexico relating to these disputes, the majority of which were privately issued in extremely small numbers, and although many of them have very little historical value, they are of considerable interest as examples of early Mexican Imprints. Others, however, do include much valuable historical material relating to Spain and Spanish America, and important genealogical references to noble families.

The Island of Santa Catalina, now known as Old Providence Island, lying about 150 miles off the coast of Nicaragua, and belonging to Colombia, was one of the favourite headquarters of the pirates in their operations against the Spanish possessions. Normally belonging to England, it was captured by a Spanish fleet under Francisco Diaz Pimienta, in 1641. This relation contains the account of this incident. Later in 1666 it was retaken by the famous buccaneers Mansfield, and Hy. Morgan, and subsequently again changed hands several times. Margin of first leaf slightly cut into.

Cuzco, 22 Nov., 1542. £50
An extraordinarily interesting manuscript being the original notarial document giving the evidence, signed by the various witnesses before the Alcalde of the court at Cuzco, concerning the movements of a certain Balthasar Mendez at the time of the Murder of Francisco Pizarro.
Balthasar Mendez was probably the same as Baltasar Mendez de Galvez, one of the early Conquistadores of Peru and Chile, who fought in the Royalist Army during the rebellion of Gonzalo Pizarro and was present at his defeat in 1548. He had been forced to go with the forces of Almagro and his confederates during the rebellion, in which Francisco Pizarro was killed, and brought the evidence of Francisco de Vaz, Diego Cornejo, Inigo de Doguete, Hernando de Solano, and Francisco Gallego, to prove that he was with the rebels against his will, and was threatened with death by Garcia de Alvarado, should he attempt to escape.
The document came from the archives of the Conquistador Gaspar de Espinosa. Several leaves have been damaged without loss of text.

"Protestation given in writing by the inhabitants of New Spain to Don Martin Carrillo, Inspector of Mexico, against the sedition and tumult of the said city, and in favour of the government of Don Diego Pimentel, Marques de Gelves."

This Memorial in favour of the Viceroy, is in the form of a petition from the Basque Colonists in Mexico to the Spanish Inspector asking for the recall of the Viceroy and complaining of the tumult that has taken place since his departure from the city.

Included in the documents are "Letter written to the Supreme Court of Mexico by the Basques of Puebla, 1612, about the negro rising, and several decrees granting permanent privileges to the Basque provinces. The protestation is dated Mexico City, 15th July, 1626, and bears a long list of names of prominent Mexicans, of Basque origin. It is signed by the Secretary of the 'Sancta Cruzada,' Bernardino de Urrutia."

[614] [QUIPUS]. Lettera Apologetica dell' Esercitato Accademico della Crusca contenente la Difesa del Libro Intitolato Lettere d'una Peruana per rispetto alla supposizione de' Quipu.

With title printed in five colours, three large folding coloured plates illustrative of the various forms of Quipus, and of their use as a means of writing, and several engraved vignettes. 4to. Original calf.

Naples, 1750-1. £3 10s

"This letter from a learned academician of the 'Della Crusca,' contains a defence of Madame de Grafigny's 'Letters from a Peruvian Princess,' published in 1747, wherein the author speaks of the extensive use of the quipus by the Peruvians."

Prescott remarks concerning the quipu, that it "was a cord about two feet long, composed of different coloured threads tightly twisted together, from which a quantity of smaller threads were suspended in the manner of a fringe. These threads were of different colours and were tied into knots; the word quipu, indeed, signifies a knot. The colours denoted sensible objects; as, for instance, white represented silver, and yellow, gold. They sometimes also stood for abstract ideas; thus, white signified peace, and red, war. But the quipus were chiefly used for arithmetical purposes. The knots served instead of ciphers, and could be combined in such a manner as to represent numbers to any amount they required. By means of these they went through their calculations with great rapidity, and the Spaniards who first visited the country bear testimony to their accuracy."

[615] RALEIGH (Sir Walter). The Discoverie of the Large, Rich, and Bewtiful Empyre of Guiana.

Small 4to. Polished calf, gilt, by Rivière.

London, Robert Robinson, 1596. £52 10s

Top margin of title restored. One or two leaves cut rather close to the text. Three issues with innumerable typographical variants appeared the same year, this being the third.

"In this work Raleigh gives an account of his second voyage (1595) and seems to confirm the marvellous tales concerning the Spanish city of El Dorado, which he calls by the Indian name of 'Manoa.' Camus says he described the country with the exactness of a person who had been born there, but that when he speaks of the richness of Guiana he seems to have been reduced by false appearances and the accounts of the natives and Spaniards, as he did when describing the Amazons and the people whose faces seemed placed on their breasts." Another writer, with perhaps greater justness, says: "Raleigh takes the utmost pains to state what he saw with his own eyes, what he was told by the Spaniards, or by the natives of the country, and what he inferred of the great riches of Guiana, from their accounts compared with his own observations." This work is included in Garnett's list of Three Hundred Notable Books.

MAGGS BROS. LTD. LONDON

[616] ——— A Declaration of the Demeanor and Cariage of Sir Walter Raleigh, Knight, as well in his Voyage, as in, and sithence his Returne; and of the true motives and inducements which occasioned His Maiestie to Proceed in doing Justice upon him, as hath bene done.

Small 4to, pp. 2, 63. Polished calf, gilt, by Rivière.

London, Bonham Norton and John Bill, 1618. £12 12s

Without the leaf which only contains the signature A1.

This was first issued on Nov. 27, 1618, a few days after Raleigh's execution, which took place on the 29th of October. Several issues and editions came out before the end of the year. It is actually the official version of what led to his death and includes the King's commission for the voyage, the account of the expedition, and the unfortunate events which occurred during it, and a record of Raleigh's actions after his return and of his attempts to escape to France. It was published in great haste, and Lord Bacon, who was the chief commissioner at the Inquiry, was supposed to have been in part its author.

Original Edition. Thick 12mo. Original calf, gilt.

Paris, J. B. Coignard, 1689. £7 10s

First edition of a very famous and entertaining work. The author adopted the Buccaneering profession in order to obtain money to pay his creditors and to return to his fashionable life in Paris. According to his own account, he was a man of the highest principles and very devout, never allowing his crew to molest priests, nuns, or churches. After taking a Spanish town he would attend mass in the Church or Cathedral with his pirates before commencing to loot. He recounts a love affair with a wealthy Spanish widow in one of his captured towns and his adventures and ultimate safe arrival back to Paris.

This report of the earthquake at Lima was written by Fr. Domingo Alverez de Toledo, the Franciscan Procurator-General at Lima, to the Padre-General, in 1687; although it has, according to Medina, been erroneously attributed to Padre Buendia. The writer compares this disaster of 20th Oct., 1687 with the earthquake which devastated Lima in 1586, and takes it as a judgment from Heaven, for the iniquities of the age; and recommends a "fervent and prompt penitence."

FAMOUS BUCCANEERING VOYAGE RECORDING THE RESCUE OF "ROBINSON CRUSOE."

[655] ROGERS (Captain Woodes). A Cruising Voyage round the World: first to the South Seas, thence to the East-Indies, and homewards by the Cape of Good Hope. Begun in 1708, and finish'd in 1711.

With 5 folding maps. FIRST EDITION. 8vo. Original calf.
London, 1712. £21

This work may be considered as a buccaneering classic. "It is of great interest and of quaint humour that renders it delightful reading." Capt. Woodes Rogers' privateering expedition set sail from Bristol on August 2, 1708. It sailed down the coast of Brazil, and round Cape Horn into the South Sea, where, being threatened by a storm, it resolved to make for the deserted island of Juan Fernandez. Arriving off the island at night a light was seen which at first was believed to shew the presence of an enemy vessel, but a boat being sent to the shore the following morning, a man was discovered dressed in goat skins and speaking English with difficulty. This was the celebrated Alexander Selkirk, who had been marooned four years before by Capt. Stradling during Dampier's voyage, and who has been immortalised as the original of Defoe's "Robinson Crusoe." An account of his adventures is given.

The expedition now cruised along the coast of Peru, taking various prizes and finally reached California, then crossed the Pacific to Asia, and arrived home in 1711 by way of the Cape of Good Hope. Rogers gives a very interesting account of the Island of Guam and of his reception there by the Spaniards.

Sabin, No. 77094. The Journal of the Voyage of Sarmiento was here printed from the original Manuscript in the Royal Library at Madrid, and edited by Don Bernardo Yriarte.

"In 1579, when Drake appeared in Peruvian waters, Sarmiento led an expedition in pursuit of him, but failed to overtake him. On his return, he received the Viceroy's orders to proceed to the Strait of Magellan, in order to intercept Drake there on his voyage back to England. At the same time he was under orders to fortify the strait so as to prevent the passage of explorers or pirates who might undertake to follow Drake. Other navigators had entered the Strait before Sarmiento—Magellan in 1520, Loaysa and Cano in 1526, Alcazava in 1535, and Drake in 1578; but Sarmiento's account of his voyage virtually superseded all reports made by previous explorers. It, moreover, persuaded the King of Spain to fit out an extensive fleet for the purpose of transporting a considerable body of colonists, men with their families, to the inhospitable shores of the strait. Sarmiento was appointed to be the governor of the colony, but the command of the fleet was entrusted to the incompetent Diego Flores de Valdés, and his incompetence rather than the storms encountered caused the ruin of the enterprise."—(Dr. Moses' "Spanish Colonial Literature in South America.")

London, J. Senex, 1726. £9 10s

"Two histories were published of this Voyage. This, by Capt. Shelvocke, was intended by him as a vindication of his conduct, having been accused of piracy and embezzlement. The other was written by one of his officers, Wm. Betagh, who was treated roughly in Shelvocke's narrative, and wrote his account with the design of exposing Shelvocke. Both narratives are written with plenty of spirit."

Capt. Shelvocke, privateer, and Capt. Clipperton, sailed in 1719 with an expedition for attacking Spanish shipping. After a few days Shelvocke gave his superior officer the slip in a storm and proceeded on his own account. He spent two months on the coast of Brazil, and proceeded to the Straits of Magellan, where occurred the incident of the Albatross which Wordsworth pointed out to Coleridge in Nov. 1797, and which the latter made use of in his Ancient Mariner. Two months were spent on the coast of Chile, where he sacked Payta and captured several small prizes, among them a vessel loaded with guano for cultivation purposes. Two visits were paid to Juan Fernandez, Robinson Crusoe's Island, on the second of which the boat was wrecked. A small vessel was built from the wreckage, and Shelvocke sailed up the coast to California, where he noted that the soil was richly auriferous, and conjectured that very probably "this country abounds in metals of all sorts." He next sailed to China, where he sold his vessel and shared out his prize money. On arrival in England he was arrested on two charges of piracy, but was acquitted for want of legal evidence. However, he made a fortune over the expedition and his owners lost one. He was imprisoned by them, but managed to escape to the Continent.

"It is not a little curious, that in this disorderly, semi-piratical voyage mention should have been made of the gold of California, and the guano of Peru, a hundred and thirty years before their modern discovery."

With 80 fine engraved coloured plates, mostly by Wm. Blake, others by Bartolozzi, etc., and various maps.

FIRST EDITION. Large Paper Copy. 2 vols. 4to. Contemporary calf.
London, J. Johnson, 1796. £16 16s

One of a few special copies on large paper, with all the plates and vignettes coloured. The plate of Joanna, the Mulatto girl, at p. 88, Vol. I, and Blake's plate of "Europe supported by Africa and America," at p. 394, Vol. II, are heightened with gold.

"In 1772, Stedman, who was in the Scots Brigade in Holland, volunteered to accompany an expedition sent out by the States-General to subdue the revolted negroes in Dutch Guiana. His narrative of this service is a model of what such a book should be. Its rules for marching and fighting amid tropical swamps anticipate those laid down for the Ashanti expedition. The field of his curiosity embraced not only all branches of natural history, but also economical and social conditions. His description of the cruelties practised on the negroes, and of the moral deterioration resulting to their masters, forms one of the most vivid indictments of slavery that have ever been penned. Not the least curious thing in the book is the story of his relations with Joanna, a beautiful Mulatto, who nursed him when sick, and bore him a son, who afterwards died at sea as a midshipman in the British navy."

Stevenson went out to Chile in 1803 with the intention of travelling, but war breaking out between England and Spain he was arrested and imprisoned successively at Concepcion, Callao, and Lima. His liberty was gradually extended and in 1808 he became private secretary to the Capt. Gen. of Quito. On the outbreak of the Revolution he joined the insurgents, and in Dec., 1810, was appointed Governor of the Esmeraldas, and became secretary to Lord Cochrane in 1818, and shared in many of his naval operations. He visited England in 1824 and published his experiences, which are of great value for the period immediately preceding the revolution. Prescott especially praised his account of Lima, and made considerable use of his accounts of native manners and customs.

[732] TENISON (E. M.). ELIZABETHAN ENGLAND: Being the History of this Country 'In Relation to all Foreign Princes.' From Original Manuscripts, many hitherto unpublished: co-ordinated with XVIth century printed matter ranging from Royal Proclamations to Broadside Ballads. A Survey of Life and Literature.

By E. M. Tenison, Member of the Society for Nautical Research, Corresponding Member of the Academy of History of Spain.

In 10 volumes quarto, with many hundred portraits and other illustrations in collotype, also title-pages and portraits in line. And with Portfolio of unique Maps, Charts, Documents, etc., relevant to the text, and now first published.

Issued for the Author to subscribers only, At the Sign of the Dove with the Griffin, Royal Leamington Spa, in the County of Warwick.

10 vols. 4to. Buckram, gilt, and portfolio of plates.

Leamington, 1934, etc. £42

Among the MSS. now first published are a map and chart by Lasso, with the arms of Portugal and Spain respectively on the different parts of the New World they had conquered; and a hitherto unknown Atlantic Chart; also the famous lost drawing of the Escorial in process of building (1576), rediscovered by the author in 1927.

This History is the first in English to do justice to Spain; Vol. IV being largely concerned with Spanish victories omitted from current English Time Tables of Dates, but now shown as affecting world politics. Especially conspicuous is the Duke of Alba's conquest of Portugal, after which Brazil and the Indies fell to Spain.

The Academy of History of Spain has pronounced that "the march of events is reconstituted in this work." And Señor D. Alvaro Alcala-Galiano (Marqués de Castel Bravo) describes it as "great not only in its size but in its extensive documentation and the breadth of its historical horizon, . . . Mr. Tenison has drawn from fresh springs of information . . . some of the MSS. translated from Spanish have not seen the light even in Spain . . . politics, art and literature make an ample social panorama."

The illustrations show "fine artistic taste and delight both the eye and the mind." Many are from private collections and hitherto unpublished.

Edition limited to 325 sets. Price 40 guineas to advance subscribers.

There are no review copies of this History, and as it presents (as stated in "The Mariner's Mirror" of April, 1935) a greater variety of English and foreign materials than any one person has ever before co-ordinated, its unique value to all serious students of 16th century life and art is beyond dispute.

[735] TOLEDO (Francisco de, Viceroy of Peru). Contemporary Manuscript Report, in Spanish, addressed to Philip II of Spain, on the state of affairs in Peru.

Folio. 42 pp. Boards.

1569. £31 10s

An extremely important report describing the results of an extensive tour throughout Peru. The Viceroy criticises the attitude of the clergy of all classes, many of whom, he claims, come solely to South America to make their fortunes at the expense of the natives and then return home. He speaks of the unsettled condition of La Paz after the insurrections of Gonzalo Gironda and Alonso Osorio, of the highway robberies committed by the Indians in the mountainous regions of Las Charcas, of the bands of robbers infesting Cuzco, Tucuman and Santa Cruz, of systematic inroads by rebel Indians on the settlements in Chile, of the general life of the natives and of the rapacity of the Spanish settlers, etc. An interesting reference is made to sending out boats against the English corsairs, Drake and Hawkins, in 1568.

(Madrid, about 1617). £15 15s

Announcing the discovery, by a party of Spaniards, of one of the old Indian highways between Caracas and the "South Sea" or Pacific, which the City of Quito was intending to re-open, and discussing some of the advantages such a road would offer.

Francis Diego de Velasco, at the time of this "relation," was the grand Provincial of Cuzco, and played a most important part in the opening up of the hinterland of Peru (including Ecuador and Colombia). In another account sent to Spain, it was announced to the King that Velasco was one of those monks who had performed most important service for His Majesty, apart from his regular religious duties, that he had travelled on foot more than 500 leagues through the inland deserts, and that he had led the party for the opening up of a new road for conquests in the interior of Peru. He afterwards returned to Spain, and became the "Redeemer of Captives," being, in that position, instrumental in liberating many captives from the hands of the Moors.

An interesting and most important "relation." The period of the actual discovery was about 1616.

With the 24 coloured aquatint plates reproduced in full-size facsimile from coloured copper-plates. Large 4to. Wrappers.

London, 1820 (1929-30). Published price £12

A magnificent reproduction of this rare and valuable work, which is becoming increasingly difficult to find in perfect condition.

Vidal's book is the best authority for the Life and Customs of the River Plate Countries at the beginning of the nineteenth century. The new edition is largely the inspiration of R. W. Staudt of Buenos Aires, and in addition to the facsimile of the original English text there is added a Spanish translation of Señor Carlos Muzio Saenz Peña with a short introduction by His Excellency Dr. Ernesto Restelli, Argentine Ambassador to Berlin. Only 250 numbered copies are being issued. Twenty copies of the plates are also being struck off separately and are available at 10s. each for the large ones and 7s. 6d. each for the smaller ones.

2 vols. in 1. Folio. Half calf.

Mexico, 1746. £21

One of the most important books printed in Mexico. The Author was Cosmographer for New Spain. By his position no one was better able to write the history of the country, and his work is therefore consulted with the greatest confidence.

The part which treats of the position of the Mexican population was written from the official reports to the Magistrates in the district, and also from the personal experience of the Author in the different voyages that he made in this part of the New World.

"As Villa-Señor was Accountant-General in New Spain, and by that means had access to proper information, his testimony with respect to the royal revenue merits great credit. He is the only author who has given its population, and although imperfect, having given only five of the nine dioceses, very useful, having published them from the reports of the magistrates in the several districts, and from his own observations and long acquaintance with most of the provinces."—Robertson.

Engraved map of the Isthmus of Darien, and 3 folding plates of the Indians smoking, blood-letting, etc. FIRST EDITION. Small 8vo. Calf, gilt, g.e.

London, James Knapton, 1699. £9 10s

This work contains the best account, that has yet been given, of the Isthmus of Panama, of the Indians there, and of the natural products, and contains many interesting items. It is in this edition that Wafer makes his strong appeal to the Government to make a settlement on the Isthmus, whereby—among other advantages—"a free passage by land, from the Atlantic to the South Sea, might easily be affected, which would be of the greatest consequence to the East India trade." It was at this period that the unfortunate Scotch Settlement was made at Darien.

In 1681, whilst with the buccaneers marching across the Isthmus soon after the taking of Santa Maria, Wafer was injured by an explosion of gunpowder and was left behind among the Darien Indians, with whom he lived until he was eventually sent to the coast and taken on board Dampier's sloop at Le Sound's Key. Being a surgeon he was held in high esteem by the Indians and was able to gain all his information concerning them at first hand.

Folio. 20 pp. Boards.

Tavisa, Panama, 1748. £35

The Jesuit Missionary Father Walburger arrived in Darien in 1745 with special instructions to enquire into the spiritual and political possibilities of the country. As a result, this report was drawn up. It relates largely to the Religious beliefs of the natives, also their baptismal, marriage and funeral rites. The welcome given by the Indians to British traders rather than to the Spanish, etc.

Sebald de Weerdt sailed, in 1598, with a Dutch Expedition for attacking the Cape Verde Islands. After the capture of the Island of Santiago he sailed across to the Strait of Magellan with the object of entering the Pacific. He was continually driven back by storms and finally had to turn about. On the way he discovered three small Islands near the Falkland Islands, which he named Sebald's Isles, and which were afterwards renamed the Jason Isles by Macbride. The other expedition was to the Dutch East Indies.

London, Mottley, 1808. £6 6s

In 1806 General Beresford had captured Buenos Aires, but had later been forced to surrender, so in 1807 a large force was sent over under Lt.-Gen. Whitelocke. Buenos Aires was entered but owing to mismanagement a large part of the forces were cut off and captured by the Spaniards, who threatened to put all their prisoners to death unless Buenos Aires & Monte Video were evacuated. Whitelocke agreed to this and the forces returned to England. His trial lasted seven weeks & he was found guilty on all the charges & was cashiered. His conduct in this expedition led to the toast among the soldiers of "Success to grey hairs, but bad luck to white locks."

An extremely interesting authentic history of the Jesuit activities in the heathen districts of Sinaloa, California and Florida, with a description of the superstitions and rites of the natives, their temples, their conquests, and conversion to Christianity.
The work is divided into twelve parts, or "books," in the first of which the author describes the province of Sinaloa, the natives, their customs, and the first entry of the Spaniards there. Book II. is devoted to the Jesuit foundation of the Sinaloa mission; book III. treats of the conversion of three of the principal tribes of natives to Catholicism; book IV. describes the Mission and conversions in the district of Rio de Mayo, Sinaloa and district; book V. describes the wars between the Spaniards and the Hiaqui natives, and their conversion; book VI. treats of the later conversions in Sinaloa; book VII. deals with the question of Missions among the barbarous peoples in general, and of the common benefits derived from them; book VIII. is devoted to the history of the Topia Mission and the conversion of its natives; book IX. describes the San Andres Mission and district; book X. describes the conversion of the Tepeguanes and their subsequent rebellion; book XI. deals with the Missions at Parras and Laguna Grande, while book

XII contains an appendix to the History of the Missions in New Spain, including a long account of the martyrdom of the nine Jesuit missionaries in Florida in 1566.

Of special interest is the chapter in which the writer mentions Admiral Pedro Porter Casanate's expedition. Philip IV. had ordered him to reconnoitre the Californian lands on the Pacific, "to seek for pearls, and colonize the unknown lands and spread the Catholic Faith," and he took with him some Jesuit Missionaries on his voyage of discovery.

Previous to this, however, a Jesuit, Father Jacinto Cortes, had already trodden on Californian soil, and a letter of his, quoted in this book, describes his meeting with the natives.
